

Environmental Health and Safety Engineer Job Description

- Responsible for managing and eradicating EHS operational risks and hazards to ensure an accident/ hazard free/echo friendly work environment
- Responsible for utilizing data to lessen environmental footprint and increase sustainability
- Ensure At-risk-behaviors and At-risk-conditions are addressed
- Track all corrective measures to ensure they are effective and completed speedily
- Provide support in managing the EHS Rewards and Recognition Program
- Responsible for developing the EHS annual site budget to control fixed and variable cost expenditures
- Work together with Line Managers/supervisors when coordinating investigation of incidents and injuries to achieve accurate and timely completion
- Provide feedback on operational safety and environmental performance regularly. Support the SHE Pillars, associated sub-committees
- Support the company's framework for site and employee safety teams and provide instruction and training to supervisors on EHS framework initiatives
- Provide EHS reports such as OSHA, RCRA, SARA, and EPA reports per scheduled deadlines.