

MRI Technologist Job Description

---

- Prepare patients for scanning procedure
- Operate imaging equipment to obtain images of the body
- Guide radiologist during scanning procedure
- Observe the patient's reactions and reactions of other technicians during process
- Review images and provide the report to physician upon request
- Manage various instruments used in MRI scanning process
- Attend to a variety of administrative duties, including communicating with patients and insurance companies, and supervise other staff members in operating room or clinic setting
- Record the progress of each study in the form of technical notes for review by physicians, nurses, and technicians
- Prepare reports, primarily for physicians, that summarize the results of the scan
- Provide excellent customer service at all times by ensuring staff is treated in a prompt, courteous, and professional manner
- Maintain good working relationships with physicians and nurses with whom they interact on a daily basis and maintain an accurate knowledge of imaging equipment used in each patient study
- Ensure efficient scanning time through effective communication with imaging team and radiologists.