

Pediatric Occupational Therapist Job Description

Duties and Responsibilities:

- Provide support and advice to the child's parents and teachers about every angle of their care that has to do with the occupational therapy needs of the child
- Adjust communication pattern to the age and level of understanding of the child. This may sometimes include no-verbal means of communication like sign language
- Attend meetings when needed to provide specialist advice as regards the functional needs of the child
- Report any defects or difficulties to the technical director
- Vigilant at all times to ensure and maintain a safe environment for the child
- Plans further treatment and review the child's general progress
- Work closely with doctors, family members, and teachers of the child by keeping them updated on his/her progress
- Participate in multi- agency working groups so as to help in the development of clinical and policy changes
- Assess the child for adaptations and use of specialist equipment when necessary
- Work within the policy that has to do with child protection procedures and training requirements
- Identify areas of improvement in the entire procedure and help in managing adaptive changes in ways through which services are rendered to the child.

Pediatric Occupational Therapist Requirements – Skills, Knowledge, and Abilities

- Must possess good communication skills on all fronts. There might be need for extra communication skills like sign language and facial

By jobdescriptionandresumeexamples.com. Learn more about the pediatric occupational therapist job.

expressions (depending on the challenges being faced by the child in question)

- Must have good interpersonal skills. That is to say that the pediatric occupational therapist must be a people person who is always at ease and friendly when relating with people, especially with the child being cared for
- Must exhibit high levels of patience and tolerance when handling the child
- Must possess good analytical and problem-solving abilities
- Must be someone that pays keen attention to every little detail about the child. That is to say that the therapist must be aware of every relevant detail that has to do with the child's environment and well-being in general
- Must display flexibility (especially in the case of different children). This is due to the fact that every child may not have the same difficulties, hence, might not respond to the same therapy procedure
- At least a Master's degree in occupational therapy, with a specialization in pediatrics
- A minimum of 3 years post qualification work experience in a similar role
- Must possess the necessary certification and valid license(s) to operate as a therapist.